Special Acknowledgements

Without the generous help of institutions and private subscribers the cartographic research and mapping work could not have been carried out. We are especially indebted to the City of Bristol, the British Academy, the Britton Trust, the Dulverton Trust, the Pilgrim Trust, the Society of Merchant Venturers, Harveys of Bristol Ltd, Imperial Group Ltd (Bristol), Mardon Packaging International Ltd, the Revd E. P. Baker, Mrs M. D. Lobel, Lord Sinclair of Cleeve, and the late Dr H. G. Tanner.

Since the project of mapping Bristol for Historic Towns was first launched in 1965 we have had the fullest possible assistance from various City Departments, in particular from the City Museum and Art Gallery, the City Records Office, and the City Engineer's Department. In respect of the Plans the Editors are indebted above all to Miss Elizabeth Ralph, formerly City Archivist, and to her successor Miss Mary Williams; to Mr M. G. Hebditch, formerly Assistant Curator of Archaeology, to Mr D. P. Dawson, now Curator of Archaeology and History, and Mr M. W. Ponsford, City Field Archaeologist. All have given unstintedly of their time and knowledge. In respect of the Commentary I am again greatly indebted to Miss Ralph for so generously allowing the writers to incorporate in their work much of her unpublished essay on 'The Topographical Development of the City up to 1800'. I am also most grateful to Mr L. V. Grinsell, formerly Curator of Archaeology in the City Museum, for help with pre-historic Bristol and to Dr Margaret Sharp, formerly Lecturer in Medieval History in the University of Bristol, for lending her transcript of the Constables' Accounts with introductory notes. Thanks are also due to her, as well as to Dr Patrick McGrath, Reader in History in the University, and Miss Williams, for kindly reading and commenting on our summary of the City's development. The help of others is acknowledged in the footnotes.

M.D.L.

The writer of the sections on medieval Bristol is much indebted to the following for their generous assistance: Miss E. Ralph, Dr Margaret Sharp, Miss Mary Williams, Mr M. W. Ponsford, and to Mrs M. D. Lobel for permission to incorporate much of her fully documented draught of an unpublished article on 'The topographical development of Bristol up to 1300'.
